

2024 END-OF-SEMESTER EXAMS – ENGLISH LANGUAGE 2 SOLUTION
ENGLISH LANGUAGE
SHS ONE
PAPER II

EASSY

1. Letter to a Sibling Living Abroad:

KWASAKO SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL,
POST OFFICE BOX 543,
KASAKO-ADA.

25th March, 2024.

Dear Gabby,

I hope this letter finds you well and thriving in the United States of America. It's been a while since we last saw each other, and the entire family is looking forward to your visit back home. As you plan your trip, there are a few things we'd like to let you know about what's been going on and what we need.

Firstly, I'm sure you're aware that Mom's health hasn't been the best lately. She's been managing her condition as best as she can, but it would mean the world to her if you could spend some quality time with her. Your presence alone would lift her spirits immensely.

Secondly, our family car has been acting up lately. Dad has been postponing repairs due to tight finances, but it's becoming increasingly unreliable. If you could pitch in with some funds for the repairs, it would be a huge help for Dad and make our daily commutes much smoother.

Lastly, we've been talking about renovating the house for quite some time now. With your expertise in interior design, we could really use your input on how to spruce up the place. Plus, it would be a great bonding experience for all of us.

Please let us know your plans and if there's anything specific you need from us to facilitate your visit. We're eagerly counting down the days until we can welcome you back home with open arms.

Take care and looking forward to seeing you soon!

Warm regards,
Yaw Benjamin

2. Letter to Parents/Guardians from Boarding School:

ACCRA SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL,
POST OFFICE BOX 127,
ACCRA.

25th March, 2024.

Dear Mom and Dad,

I hope this letter finds you both in good health and high spirits. I wanted to take a moment to share with you my experiences since arriving at [Boarding School Name].

I must admit, the transition to boarding school life has been more challenging than I anticipated. Adjusting to the strict schedule, unfamiliar surroundings, and being away from home has been difficult for me. The initial excitement has given way to feelings of homesickness and anxiety.

The academic workload is also quite demanding, and I find myself struggling to keep up with assignments and exams. The pressure to excel academically adds to the stress of being away from home.

Furthermore, making new friends hasn't been as easy as I thought it would be. While I've met some friendly classmates, I still feel like an outsider at times. It's hard not having familiar faces around to turn to for support.

I understand the importance of this experience and the opportunities it will provide for my personal and academic growth. However, I wanted to share my feelings with you honestly and seek your guidance on how to navigate these challenges.

I miss you both terribly and find myself counting down the days until the next school break when I can be home with you again. Your love and support mean everything to me, and I am grateful to have you in my corner.

Thank you for listening, and I look forward to hearing from you soon.

With love and affection,
Kwamena Kofi Kwaakye.

3. Letter to a Friend about School's 25th Anniversary:

ACCRA SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL,
POST OFFICE BOX 127,
ACCRA.

25th March, 2024.

Dear Bongo,

I hope this letter finds you in good health and high spirits. I wanted to share with you the excitement of celebrating our school's 25th anniversary recently. It was truly a memorable occasion filled with joy, nostalgia, and pride.

The festivities kicked off with a special assembly where we honored the founding members of our school and reflected on its journey over the past 25 years. It was inspiring to hear stories of resilience, dedication, and achievement from alumni, teachers, and staff members.

Throughout the week, various events and activities were organized to commemorate this milestone. We had sports tournaments, cultural performances, art exhibitions, and a grand gala dinner attended by esteemed guests and dignitaries.

One of the highlights of the celebrations was the unveiling of a commemorative plaque by the school's principal, followed by a fireworks display that lit up the night sky. It was a breathtaking moment that brought the entire school community together in unity and pride. I wish you could have been here to experience the excitement and camaraderie firsthand. The atmosphere was electric, and it reinforced our sense of belonging and pride in being part of such a prestigious institution.

I hope this letter gives you a glimpse into the wonderful events that took place during our school's 25th anniversary celebration. I look forward to catching up with you soon and sharing more stories from the festivities.

Warm regards,
Ako Man

Smart Learning Tools

4. Story Ending with "If I had known the truth, I would not have acted the way I did":

It was a breezy autumn afternoon when Sarah stumbled upon an old, dusty chest in the attic. Curiosity piqued, she eagerly opened it, expecting to find forgotten treasures from generations past. Instead, she discovered a stack of faded letters tied together with a weathered ribbon.

As she read through the letters, Sarah's heart sank with each word. They revealed a long-buried family secret, one that shattered her perception of the past. Shock and disbelief clouded her thoughts as she grappled with the truth.

For years, Sarah had harbored resentment towards her estranged uncle, believing him to be the black sheep of the family. She had judged him harshly, never bothering to understand the circumstances that led to his departure. If only she had known the truth earlier, she would not have acted with such disdain.

With a heavy heart, Sarah realized the importance of empathy and forgiveness. She vowed to seek out her uncle and mend the broken ties, determined to make amends for her past misjudgments. If only she had known the truth sooner, she would have approached the situation with compassion and understanding.

5. Story Illustrating "Excessive Love of Money Can Lead One into Danger":

In the bustling city of Metropolis, there lived a young man named Jack who was consumed by his desire for wealth. Day and night, he toiled tirelessly, driven by the belief that money was the key to happiness and success.

Jack's obsession with wealth blinded him to the consequences of his actions. He cut corners, took risks, and deceived others in his relentless pursuit of fortune. His moral compass became skewed as he prioritized money over integrity and compassion.

One fateful day, Jack received an offer too lucrative to refuse—a chance to make a quick fortune through a dubious business venture. Ignoring the warning signs, he plunged headfirst into the scheme, blinded by the promise of instant wealth.

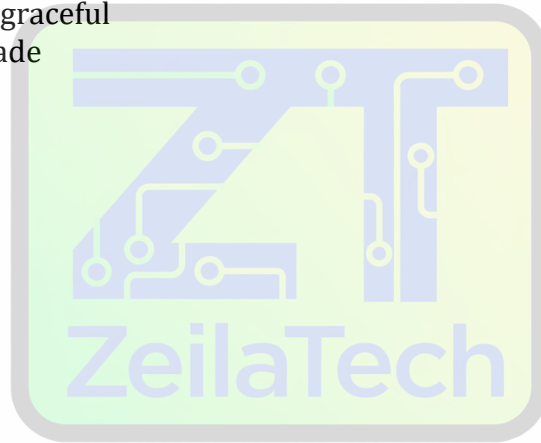

However, as the scheme unraveled, Jack found himself entangled in a web of deceit and betrayal. His greed had led him into dangerous territory, where the stakes were higher than he could have imagined. He realized too late that his excessive love of money had jeopardized not only his financial security but also his safety and well-being.

In the end, Jack paid the price for his folly, losing everything he had worked so hard to gain. As he picked up the pieces of his shattered life, he learned a valuable lesson—that true wealth lies not in material possessions, but in the richness of one's character and the depth of one's relationships.

COMPREHENSION [20 MARKS]

1. Two reasons why Mr. Antwi would find it difficult to get to work without his car are:
 - a) His neighborhood is secluded from the city, with very few public vehicles using that route, making it challenging to find alternative transportation.
 - b) Mr. Antwi's car was essential for his commute to work, and without it, he would face significant inconvenience and potential lateness due to the unreliable public transportation in his area.
2. It was strange that Mr. Antwi did not give Mr. Bediako a lift because Mr. Bediako was the only neighbor who owned a car. Despite Mr. Antwi's previous reluctance to ask Mr. Bediako for a favor, the dire situation of Mr. Antwi's car being missing should have prompted him to seek assistance, especially from the neighbor who could provide transportation.
3. Mr. Antwi refused to accept Rose's excuses when she came to work late because he was already in a foul mood due to his car troubles and the stress of his commute. He projected his frustration onto Rose, exhibiting impatience and intolerance for any perceived incompetence or laziness from his employees.
4. The relationship between Mr. Antwi and Rose appears to be that of an employer and employee. Rose works for Mr. Antwi, as indicated by her being present at his office, and Mr. Antwi holds authority over her, as he reprimands her for being late to work.

5. Two words or expressions indicating Mr. Antwi's mood that day are:
a) Dejected
b) Exploded in anger
6. The underlined word "denying" in the expression "denying a man in distress a favor" is a verb.
7. The literary device used in the expression "the engine finally coughed" is personification, as it attributes human qualities (coughing) to a non-human entity (the engine).
8. Synonyms or replacements for the given words or phrases in the passage:
i) particularly - especially
ii) secluded - isolated
iii) exploded - erupted
iv) in a fix - in a dilemma
v) deplorable - disgraceful
vi) demean - degrade

Smart Learning Tools